ABOUT TOMMY FITZPATRICK

Born in Dallas in 1969, Tommy Fitzpatrick received his B.A. in Fine Art from the University of Texas in Austin in 1991, followed by an M.F.A. from Yale University School of Art in 1993.

Fitzpatrick has shown in numerous exhibitions in cities such as Houston, Madrid, New York, London, Dallas, Berlin, and Seoul. An exhibition catalogue was published for his Seoul show, titled City Faces, in 2009. Also that same year, he participated in Geometry in Reflection with Margo Sawyer at the University of Texas at Arlington, featuring a catalogue essay by Christina Rees. His work was also documented in catalogues for Bridge, a 2006 solo show in Berlin, and Object Lessons, a seven-year survey of Fitzpatrick's work curated by Clint Willour of the Galveston Arts Center; the exhibition also traveled to Texas A&M in Commerce and The Arlington Museum of Art.

His paintings are in the collection of the Museum of Fine Arts, Houston, the Modern Art Museum of Fort Worth, the Art Museum of South Texas in Corpus Christi, and the Menil Collection in Houston. He is currently a professor of painting at Texas State University in San Marcos, Texas, and resides in New Braunfels, Texas.
