ART OF DISTORTION

Artist Statement

Bringing together works from several series, the exhibition highlights the connections between my different artistic approaches, techniques, and visual explorations. Rather than following a single linear narrative, it creates a space in which distinct bodies of work enter into dialogue, revealing recurring concerns and unexpected affinities.

Across these works, I explore reality as something constantly constructed, fragmented, and reimagined. Through intricate geometries, shifting perspectives, and saturated seemingly coherent worlds.

The Art of Distortion brings these varied explorations together around the tension between order and absurdity, control and chaos, inviting viewers to consider how perception shapes our understanding of reality. In this context, distortion becomes not a departure from reality, but a way of seeing it anew.

Artist Introduction

Ema Harris-Sintamarian is a Romanian-born artist who is now based in Oakland, California. Her work reflects the relationship between her identity and her sense of displacement, and how she reconciles these conflicting elements. In her intricate drawings, she brings static diagrams to life through her exploration of the push and pull between containment and liberation.

A recipient of the Golden Foundation Fellowship and the Eureka Fellowship, she has exhibited internationally and holds MFAs from the University of Delaware and San José State University, where she currently teaches as an adjunct instructor.
